Why One Might Aught to Cook with Cannabis…

We turn our heads, but we all know that the inhalation of burnt plant matter is not healthy. However, the profoundly obliging properties of medicinal marijuana are irrefutable and historically integrated into many cultures. Currently the most common means of ingestion remains the act of smoking.

The compounds in marijuana that deliver medicinal results are broken down differently in flame than they are in digestion, and can be much more effective when they have not been burnt. Not to mention that each exhale contains plenty more THC that will never be absorbed by the body. This scenario may also leave one's environment with a distinctive aroma, which one may or may not desire for various reasons.

Edibles produce a different feeling, experience, and effect than smoking. In addition to lasting longer, some agree that the focused sensations are more bodily and less cerebral.

When cooking with cannabis the variability of flavors is endless, and one can enjoy a tasty treat and one's medicine simultaneously. Win, win!

By no means is anyone required to choose between eating and smoking. Should one choose to do both, knock one-self out!

For Consideration:

Each Marijuana plant is different. Even the same strain of plant, or a plant cloned from its predecessor will produce differently under varying conditions. Additionally, every person responds differently to its consumption. That said… "Ya don't know what you're gonna get 'til ya got it." So it is important to use one's best judgment when deciphering between high grade and low grade cannabis. Approach recipes conservatively and work one's way up in potency.

 For medicinal use only. Remember, marijuana is still illegal unless prescribed.

 Do not drive nor operate heavy machinery while medicated. This is not cool at all.

 Doses are estimated, don't overdo it. Start out small as it can take 30 to 75 minutes for effects to kick in. If you eat too much you will regret it, so don't say we didn't tell you so.

 By reading this book you deem the authors and Roachclip.com are not held liable for any of the results of your culinary experiments including, but not limited to, harm caused by your debaucherous activities.

Side Effects Include:

Euphoria, feelings of wellbeing, irresistible laughter, the urge to share love and joy, delicious flavor enhancement and an exaggerated ability to process the observation of good music.

CannaButter & Oil

Ingredients:

- 1 oz. coarsely ground Medicinal Marijuana.
- 1 Lb. unsalted butter or shortning, Or 16 Oz Oil (Recommended: Olive, Sunflower, or Peanut)
- Water

Directions:

Pour ground marijuana into a Crock-pot and add water, at a ratio of 3 parts water to 1 part plant matter.

Simmer for 6 hours on Low heat, stirring occasionally.

Once the plant matter has settled more toward the bottom, add a half cup of cold water and stir in the butter or oil.

Simmer stirring often. Do not allow the mixture to reach a boil. Continue to simmer on low for an additional 3 hours. The plant matter should settle to the bottom again when it is properly cooked.

First strain the mixture through a rice strainer. Add boiling water to the strainer to extract more THC. Using a ricer (looks like a garlic press), claim the remaining butter or oil from the plant matter left in the strainer. Next strain it through a finer mesh sifter. This can also be done by pressing the remaining plant matter through cheese cloth.

Let it cool, for a few min. Place a lid on it, and then bring it down close to room temp before refrigerating or freezing it.

For butter, Refrigerate for 3 days. Then collect the solid butter that has settled on top of the water. Scrape off the layer of cream and minor bits of plant matter that bordered the water layer. It can be used for other baking.

For Oil, freeze it for 1-2 days, then separate the water and oil with a knife and place the oil into a container to bring back to room temp. If you need your oil right away, you may be able to see the separation of the water & oil as the mixture cools. Ladle most of the oil off the top gently and place it into a separate container. Otherwise, use a turkey baster to suck the water out from the bottom layer and dispose of the water, leaving just the oil.

Weed Milk or Weed Half & Half

Ingredients:

- 1/8 Oz of High Grade Medical Marijuana (or 1/4 Oz of low grade)-finely ground
- Half gallon of whole milk or 1 quart of half & half cream

Directions:

Line the crock-pot with a Slow Roaster brand bag to reduce clean-up mess (optional).

Pour the milk or half & half into the lined crock-pot. Then pour in the finely ground medical marijuana. Stir vigorously, cook on medium-high heat for one hour.

Turn the heat down to low and let simmer for another 6-8 hours, stirring occasionally.

Turn off heat and let cool for a little while before straining.

Strain out the plant matter. Using a cheese cloth works well.

Next, let the concoction cool to nearly room temperature, then refrigerate until you are ready to use it.

NOTE: 1 -3 fluid oz of weed milk in your coffee or cereal is a great dose for the day! Or ½-1 ½ oz of half and half will have the same potency.

Add 1 more tablespoon of canna-oil to pan when the first has been used up. Use up to 3.

- 1/2 cup fresh parmesan cheese, grated
- Fresh Italian parsley, for garnish

Directions:

Heat the chicken broth in a medium saucepan and keep warm over low heat.

Heat 1 tablespoon of oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Add 1/2 onion and 1 clove garlic, cook, stirring, until translucent, about 5 minutes. Add the fresh mushrooms, herbs and canna-butter. Sauté for 3 to 5 minutes until lightly browned and season with salt and pepper. Drizzle in truffle oil then add the dried porcini mushrooms which were reconstituted in1 cup of warm chicken broth. Season again with salt and fresh cracked pepper. Sauté 1 minute then remove from heat and set aside.

Coat a saucepan with remaining 2 tablespoons of canna-oil. Sauté the remaining 1/2 onion and garlic clove. Try to keep the heat medium/low to preserve potency. Add the rice and stir quickly until it is well-coated and opaque, 1 minute. This step cooks the starchy coating and prevents the grains from sticking. Stir in wine and cook until it is nearly all evaporated.

Continue to cook and stir, allowing the rice to absorb each addition of broth before adding more. The risotto should be slightly firm and creamy, not mushy.
